

The matter concerns greasy smells that are coming from the Chinese Takeaway in Gore Square.

The extractor fan goes on at around 4.45 pm and does not stop until after 9 pm. In the recent hot weather with the necessity of open windows this has meant that strong odours have infiltrated the house. This is making the inhabitant feel ill.

Would it be possible to maybe write to them asking them firstly to clean the filters and secondly to maybe reduce the length of time the extractor is on.

The inhabitant is aware that this is a business and people have the right to run them.

On the other hand, is this a matter for the environmental health department of the council?
